

The Lakeview Lamp

"Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path." - Psalm 119:105

June 8, 2008

Evaluating New Songs

Mark Roberts

For the longest time it seemed brethren were fairly certain Sacred Selections contained just about every hymn that needed to be sung. Like it or not, that has certainly changed. Many congregations are now using some hymnal other than Sacred Selections. Many congregations have also added a "supplemental" book (often paperback) that contains all kinds of new hymns. Several brethren are actively writing and publishing new hymns, with an emphasis on songs of praise. All of these new song books and new songs have dramatically expanded the options in our singing, but is that a good thing? Just how do we go about evaluating all these newer songs?

Is it too much to suggest that the criteria for new songs is no different than that which should be used for old songs, indeed, for every song? The New Testament mandates a cappella singing of "psalms and hymns and spiritual songs" (Eph 5:19) but allows us considerable liberty in choosing those songs. We can sing fast or slow, in four-part harmony or in unison. There is nothing inherently good about old hymns nor is there anything inherently wrong with a song simply because it was written yesterday. We are at liberty to sing old or new songs, but there are some important considerations that should apply to every hymn we sing.

For example, a song ought to be scripturally accurate. The most important element of any hymn is the words. If those words reflect or teach false doctrine then the song fails. This is true of any hymn, old and new. Singing has a teaching aspect to it. Who wants to teach error? Of course, hymns receive some poetic license because they use poetry and imagery to express our emotions and feelings. This is true in the Bible's psalms (see Psalm 51:5, for example). Thus if our standard is to go over every song with a fine tooth comb and a magnifying glass we may end up unable to sing even the inspired psalms in Scripture! That isn't fair to any hymn, and it is certainly unfair when that standard is only applied to new songs. Yet if something notably stands out as being inconsistent with New Testament Christianity why should we have such a "fly in the ointment" in our worship? We have no shortage of hymns. Let us sing what is clearly and obviously scripturally correct.

A song ought to be sing-able. In Restoration Days most hymns were sung to the same tune so that brethren could concentrate on the words instead of its music. We have come a long way since then! More melodies have been introduced, and then four part harmony became popular. As brethren's musical sophistication grew so our taste for more and more complicated songs has grown. Now we sing hymns with repeats, different parts "leading out", all kinds of musical notation and a variety of choruses and endings. Some hymns are so complicated one needs a roadmap to get through them! We need to remember that if a song becomes too complex for "regular folk" (especially those without formal musical training) to sing then it loses its functionality in worship. If the worshiper is paying too much attention to the repeats and holds then he or she may not be giving sufficient attention to the words and that is not good at all!

A song ought to edify. In a meeting once I found myself singing with a congregation from their "supplemental" song book. We sang a hymn where each part (tenor, alto, soprano, bass) were singing different words – all at the same time! I wonder if an elementary school used four different teachers teaching four different subjects simultaneously if the students could learn anything at all? Such chaos and confusion is not conducive to learning, so what was such doing in the assembly of the saints? For certain, the hymn we sang sounded very beautiful but I could not pick out any specific words or hardly keep up with what I was singing. From a spiritual standpoint, it seemed like a complete disaster. How could anyone be edified when nothing could be distinctly heard? Colossians 3:16 says we are to “let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord.” “Teaching and admonishing” requires some degree of clarity, doesn’t it? Further, it is fair to note that teaching also requires a message that is being taught. Some songs repeat the same word over and over. Repetition can be a part of scriptural singing (see Psalms 136). But what is taught, what is the message, in the continual repetition of one word?

Singing is one of the easiest acts of worship, and also one of the hardest. It is easy because it involves a physical action on the part of the worshiper, it is something we can all participate in. However, it is hard to keep one’s heart engaged while doing the mouth and tongue sing, isn’t it? We should be glad that new songs are being written that help us praise God and edify one another in contemporary terms and through new music styles. Just their newness may help us “re-engage” in singing in a better way. That said, all that is new is not necessarily good. Let us choose wisely, both from our rich heritage of grand old hymns and these new songs, so that when we are singing our music is beautiful to God because we are “singing and making melody in our hearts to the Lord.”

News and Notes

Burton Brown, Bonnie’s brother, had a brain scan Friday that showed no abnormalities, so he will receive treatment using an oral medication instead of chemo. Read more at www.caringbridge.org/visit/burtonbrown. His mailing address is 322 Raintree Dr., Hendersonville.

Mary Burnett remains at home on Hospice care.

Connie Cobern was in the hospital for a few days last week with a serious case of pneumonia but is now back home. She is still recovering.

Metty Fain remains in Highland Manor Nursing Home; Room B2; 215 Highland Circle Dr; Portland, TN 37148.

Billy Hulén, Jo Ann Wooten’s nephew, has a melanoma spot that will be removed Monday.

Cotton Read has a doctor’s visit on Monday.

Ame White had an increase in her pain medicine, but her pain is still really intense. She has barely been able to get out of bed for any length of time.

Out of town, Visiting: David and Linda Bansemer (coast), Jerry Jenkins (work), Michael and Michaela Nicholson (Pigeon Forge).

New Reports from men we support: Gary Hunt (NY), Chad Lynn (WV), Allen Malone (Vietnam, see below).

Dear friends,

Good news! I received my approved Vietnamese visa this morning (6-6-08).

All is in place for my departure for Vietnam Wednesday morning (6/11). Please continue praying! Your prayers, encouragement and support protect, enthuse, and enable us at home and abroad. We thank God for all He does through you. What a joy to be used by Him with you in His work of reaching the world!

Praise be to Him!

Allen

Lakeview church of Christ

132 New Shackle Island Road

P.O. Box 514

Hendersonville TN 37077

Building: 615-824-1376

www.BibleSaints.com

Bible Call: 615-824-1310

If you would like to subscribe, unsubscribe, or change your address to this bulletin, then simply respond to this message and state your request.

Troy Nicholson

troyjenn@bellsouth.net

"Rejoice always; pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks" (1 Thes 5:16-18).